Joseph Adolphus LaPlace

May 27, 1927 ~ February 10, 2004

My Grandmother Julie witnessed Charles Lindberg's plane swoop over St. Thomas in May 1927. Imagine her fright! She ran to the safety of her little house yelling "La fin du monde! La fin du monde!" (The end of the world! The end of the world!) A good scare made for a speedy delivery; she gave birth to Joseph Adolphus LaPlace soon after.

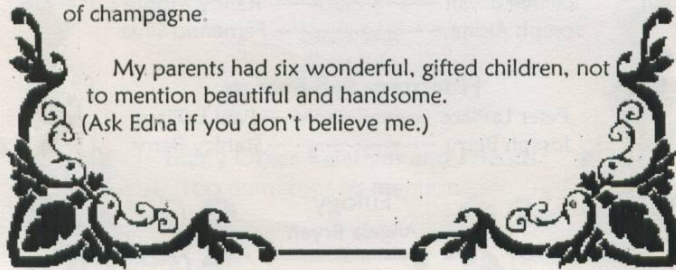

I don't think his childhood is anything we could relate to today. Everyday was hard times. His father, John Vitalis, better known as Tally, died in his early 40's leaving behind a wife and nine children.

In 1951, he was called to military duty to serve his country as a paratrooper in the Army. He was stationed in France and Germany. He credited the Army for the best education a man could receive.

On the 20th of June 1953, he married Edna Lucinda Bryan at The Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Passaic, New Jersey. They were the Romeo and Juliet of Hull Bay – no joke!

They celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 2003. He was in the hospital recovering from surgery and drinking "real pain killers" while his wife toasted their enduring love and respect for each other with not one, but two glasses of champagne.

My parents had six wonderful, gifted children, not to mention beautiful and handsome.
(Ask Edna if you don't believe me.)

Joe LaPlace had numerous callings in his 76 years of life. Of course, he is well know as The Master Fisherman who shared his knowledge and love of the sea with all who were interested.

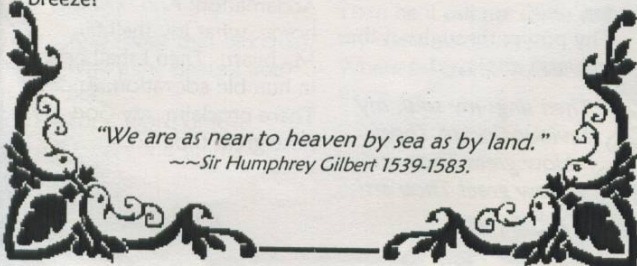

He worked for the Department of Fish and Wild Life. He taught at the College of the Virgin Islands. He not only promoted our Virgin Islands culture – he lived it. He was a natural born storyteller.

“The Mighty Cha Cha” loved good times and a good drink. He always carried song, music and dance in his heart. Always.

He was so many things to so many people; everyone has a story.

Finally, but most profoundly, he was a man of deep faith and there is no better demonstration of faith than a person who plants seeds in the earth and catches fish in the sea. His last days and final hour were spent wrapped in the comfort of his faith allowing him to ease his way out of his life.

Maybe St. Peter will meet him at the gates of heaven and being a fisherman himself, Joe’s admittance will be a breeze!

A decorative flourish consisting of two symmetrical, ornate scrollwork designs that curve upwards and outwards from a central horizontal line. The designs are intricate, featuring leaf-like patterns and swirling lines.

“We are as near to heaven by sea as by land.”
~~Sir Humphrey Gilbert 1539-1583.
